Happy New Year to all WSHPA members and greetings to our friends in Oregon and Idaho as well. My name is Jerry Clark, and along with my wife Susan and our daughter Maureen Cunningham, who have graciously offered to help with technical support, we hope to keep Shoes News interesting, informative, fun, and something that you look forward to receiving in your mailboxes from January through October each year.

In last Junes edition of Shoes News , Jim Link informed us that after fifteen wonderful years, 2013 would be his last one as editor of this fine newsletter. After the shock wore off, and after a time of considering the position myself, I felt certain someone in our horseshoe family must have a journalistic 'itch' that needed to be scratched, and would step up to the challenge. I also thought the job would exceed my qualifications and consequently, I decided to wait and see if the position was 'meant' for someone else. At state tournament time in Port Orchard, president Don Davis informed me that he didn't have anyone lined up, and asked if I was interested. At the state executive board meeting that afternoon we decided to take it on.

THE 2014 EDITION OF THE RINGER CLASSIC BEGINS

This years Winetrout Winter Classic Series of six tournaments commences on January 11th, and winds up on March 22nd. In between, pitchers from Washington, and maybe a few from Oregon, will shake the rust off their shoes and their pitching arms, and compete for some nice awards. They include the Mens, Womens, and Elders Championships, as well as the Most Improved %, and the Traveling Trophy, along with the Junior Participation Plaques. You must participate in at least 5 of the 6 tournaments to be eligible for the awards. At the conclusion of Winetrout 6, there will be a potluck dinner and an auction, with all proceeds going to the Junior World Fund. All Winetrout Series awards will also be presented at this time. These six tournaments are ringers only, single points do not count. You will also have an opportunity to renew your WSHPA/NHPA memberships. Lets show our support for this great northwest horseshoe pitching tradition by turning out in big numbers, and having lots of fun!!

Hey, look at the calendar, it is Winetrout time. Time to dig up your rain gear and cold weather gloves !

I can't wait to see everyone and get some pitching in. I went to Olympia a couple of weeks ago and pitched in their Snowball tournament. I had a great time seeing Matt and the rest of the club.

We have had some people call and change from 40 foot to 30 foot, so it will be exciting to see that group grow. We might even find someone to give Russ some competition !

Well, that is it for now. Hope everyone had a great Christmas and Happy New Year.

See you on the courts,

Don

Shoes News thanks those who contribute articles, pictures, emails, and other items. Your comments, criticism, and input is always welcome. This page is for you to share your thoughts, and concerns of our horseshoe pitching family. . Lets hear from you.

A TIME TO REMEMBER

As I look back over 2013, I feel a great deal of sadness at the loss of so many of our horseshoe friends. The list is so long - Lyle Calkins, Chuck Holden, Gerald Smith, Chuck Mason, Bill Graham Sr. (OR), Ben Weidrich (OR), Elzia Jordan, Earl Kettleon, Cy Kitchen, Amy Kitchen, Ernie Austin and most recent Tom Worthington. As you look at that list, you probably can envision lots of hard fought games, lots of fun times, lots of great stories and lots of pride in our sport.

I'm not sure everyone realizes the strong ties that have bound so many of us 'old timers' together. The contributions these people have made to us are priceless. We have each lost a part of ourselves.

My thoughts of gratitude and prayers of comfort are sent along to each of the families who have lost loved ones. Our friends may be gone but not ever forgotten.

Thoughts and Prayers

Ed: I received the following note too late to get into the Oct. issue, but will post for those of you who have not heard. Thanks, Carol

Hello everyone, I had a call left on our answering machine today from Cy and Amy Kitchen's daughter Edie to let us know that Amy passed away last Friday. The service will be at the same place as Cy's, Mountain View Funeral Home in Lakewood, at 2PM on Saturday October 26. Her obituary was in today's Tacoma News Tribune. I will attach a scan of the obituary.

I also heard today that Gerald "Smitty" Smith, at one time an active pitcher from the Auburn area, passed away recently at age 80.

In preparing for our first newsletter, I looked back a few years at past issues of Shoes News and was so impressed by the quality of work done by former editors Jim Link, and Carol Sperber. I will have my hands full in maintaining the standard that they have set, but we will do our best. Have patience with us as we work through the learning curve. Throughout the year I will bring up topics I hope you'll find interesting, and we'll work hard to keep you as informed as possible about horseshoe pitching in Washington state.

With the Winetrouts right around the corner, I have a pretty good idea how the Tin Woodsman in the Wizard of Oz must have felt...very rusty, and searching for my oil can. It's hard to have a smooth delivery with creaky joints. In 1966 Francis "Winnie" Winetrout started this series of six tournaments to allow pitchers to keep their games in tune over the winter, and to encourage early sign ups for membership to the WSHPA and NHPA. Now 49 years later, this great winter tradition is still going strong in accomplishing both those objectives. Those of us who attend some or all the tournaments, will hit the ground running in April when the regular pitching season commences with the Tulip Open in Burlington. That is when tournament pitcher of the year points begin to be accumulated. Finally, I know I speak for the entire WSHPA family in thanking Jim and Betty Link for their tremendous contributions to horseshoe pitching in our state for the past twenty-four years. May God richly bless you both as you spend more time with family, as well as hobbies and other interests. We will be looking forward to seeing you from time to time on the pitching courts across the Northwest.

Fringe Benefits

When I joined the WSHPA to learn how to pitch horseshoes, a funny thing happened along the way. I found out the “fringe benefits” are every bit as good as the game itself. What am I talking about? While pitching in a tournament a couple years ago, I was not having a very good day, and while my opponent was getting ready to pitch, I turned around, and in frustration gazed off into the sky. My pitching didn’t get much better the rest of that day, and while driving home that afternoon, I was left to analyzing what had gone wrong. Eventually, the part of my brain that deals in common sense told me ... absolutely nothing went wrong today. As a matter of fact, you had a great day. What! Well, including your warm-up pitches you probably threw 400 or more shoes, and that means you walked back and forth between the stakes about 200 times which is about 2 miles worth of exercise. You had the sun shining on your face for about 4 hours while you were outdoors breathing clean, fresh air. Oh I almost forgot, you did a few squats and probably 200 or so bends at the waist, all the time having a few good laughs with some great friends, and what’s so bad about all that? The bottom line is we don’t really know how far we will progress as horseshoe pitchers, but if playing the game keeps us moving and active and off our couches, and if we meet new people, and develop a few long lasting friendships along the way, then this great game will have been a blessing far beyond anything we could have imagined when we first signed up to simply ... learn how to pitch. Yes, I found out that day, that there are no bad days pitching horseshoes, some days are just a little better than others.

APRIL 1983 SHOES NEWS REPORT ON PITCHING IMPROVEMENT

Henry Knauft says: Timing is a matter of putting stance, step, swing, and forward motion with follow through all together in one fluid motion. You will have less margin for error when your delivery is jerky. One of the most important phases of my delivery is to put my whole body in motion – get enough forward motion that it gets your right foot off the ground. I have seen some pitchers whose right foot never leaves the ground. At that point their body motion stops and their arm has to complete the pitch which causes them to get just enough out of line to miss the stake.

A Nun Runs Out of Gas

Sister Mary Ann, who worked for a home health agency, was out making her rounds visiting homebound patients when she ran out of gas. As luck would have it, a gas station was just a block away. She walked to the station to borrow a gas can and buy some gas. The attendant told her that the only gas can he owned had been loaned out, but she could wait until it was returned. Since Sister Mary Ann was on the way to see a patient, so she decided not to wait, and walked back to her car. She looked for something in her car that she could fill with gas and spotted the bedpan she was taking to the patient. Always resourceful, Sister Mary Ann carried the bedpan to the station, filled it with gasoline and carried the full bedpan back to her car. As she was pouring the gas into her tank, two Baptists watched from across the street. One of them turned to the other and said “if it starts, I’m going to become a Catholic”.

CLANG LIKE MUSIC TO HORSESHOE PITCHERS

By Ron Kantowski, Las Vegas Review – Journal. St. George, Utah

I have a pal named Chip, who lives near here and has a nice view. When I told him I was coming up for the World Horseshoe Tournament he drove out there before I even arrived. "Wait'll you hear the sound," Chip said via cell phone about the clang, clang, clang of tournament horseshoes ringing tournament horseshoe stakes. He said he even saw some Norwegians pitching. When I arrived, I spotted the flag of Norway hanging from the wall of the Dixie Center, next to the flag of South Africa. I did not spot any Norwegians.

Stu Sipma, the National Horseshoe Pitchers Association president from North Dakota, said he hadn't seen any Norwegians either, but that a bunch of Namibians had pitched in the morning. Unfortunately, and unlike the lone Elvis/Neil Diamond/Neil Young impersonator I saw, the Namibians had left the building. The clang, clang, clang of horseshoes was everywhere, except the restrooms, where a sign said you couldn't take them inside. The clang, clang, clang, was loud, but not as deafening as say, the metal being forged at a foundry. Tina Hawkins, the NHPA Second Vice President told me the clang, clang, clang is to a horseshoe player what the sound of the mailman coming up the sidewalk is to a dog. A horseshoe player's ears perk when he hears it, and he's liable to come running after just one clang.

It had been roughly 45 years since I had last watched people pitch horseshoes. They were mostly uncles I didn't know, at our family reunion, because this is what kids do at family reunions, after they have ice cream and watermelon and the swing set is broken. I asked Tina Hawkins, who is from a town in Oklahoma so small that it is not off a turnpike-the address on her business card is a post office box on Route 4- if she pitched horseshoes at her family reunion. "No, she said smiling, because people from Oklahoma always smile, even when you ask a dumb question. "Why not?" I said. "Wouldn't be fair," she said. No, it wouldn't, because though Tina said she doesn't practice pitching horseshoes as much as she used to, she still tosses 48 percent ringers. The uncles I didn't know were lucky if they made one out of 10.

The horseshoe pitchers have been holding world tournaments for nearly a century- the first one was in 1915 in Kansas City Mo.- and folks come from far and wide to have their fling. Tina Hawkins said there were 1,031 people from 46 states pitching horseshoes on 42 courts, a court consisting of two stakes, two pits full of molded clay that resemble glops of brown Play-Doh, and 40 feet between the stakes and Play-Doh pits. She suggested I check out the courts on the right front side of the Dixie Center, because that was where Alan Francis, the 17 time champion would be making it clang against the other top pitchers, including Walter Ray Williams Jr., who is almost as good at bowling (47 PBA titles) as he is at pitching horseshoes. She also said Alan Francis pitches 90 percent ringers, which sounded high. According to the stats, Francis was hitting only 88 percent coming in, nevertheless you still got the idea he was pretty good at this. I watched the end of a match between Francis, who is fit and has a flattop and a mustache and resembles a state trooper, against Brian Simmons from Vermont, who wears a headband and a tie-dye T-shirt and looks like an old hippie.

These two pitched ringer after ringer after ringer after ringer after ringer. Until the crowd gasped, which meant that somebody had missed. It was Simmons. Somebody from Tennessee excitedly told me the final score was 9 to 15, which I assumed was like a 2-1 baseball game going 10 or 11 innings. Even an outsider from the city could tell this was a great game of horseshoes. When it was finally over Saturday, Alan Francis had won another world title and a nice trophy for the wall of the precinct, and Brian Simmons had finished second again, and Walter Ray Williams Jr. the great bowler had finished fifth.

My pal Chip, a Cal Tech guy, returned to the Dixie Center with this device to record the sound of the clang, clang, clang. He nudged me in the ribs. A small bald man with a white beard was strolling by. He was wearing a blue T-shirt that showed a horseshoe and a big fish, which could have been a salmon, leaping through the "U" of the horseshoe. Could this have been the Norwegian? It was. It was Inge Byrkjeland of Naustdal, a picturesque fishing village north of Oslo, way north of Oslo, from up there on the fjords. This likable fellow said he had spent $7,800, which is a lot of kroner, to see America and to pitch ringers in Utah.

He told me he was happy, because whereas he usually tosses 29 percent ringers, he threw 32 percent in the tournament. This wasn't bad he said, considering he was tossing an American horseshoe, instead of the lighter Norwegian model. Over the clang, clang, clang of the horseshoes, I told Inge Byrkjeland that I would pay good money, like $15 American, at least for one of his T-shirts that showed the salmon jumping through the horseshoe, but he said he had bought only two and had given the other one away.

 2014 Renewal Time

See the rate schedule for memberships and newsletter renewals on the inside of the back page.

All the subscriptions for ads and the newsletter expire in March. If you have not renewed your ad or your membership, you will not get the April issue, and your ad will not appear. Your club ads and your timely subscriptions are important. As always, if you go south for the Winter, you will have to re-subscribe before you can pitch.

JUST A THOUGHT....

Why is it that, as we get older, whenever one brain cell dies, two very young and vigorous fat cells are born?

Experience is that huge, unmarked, and irreparable pothole in the highway of theory.

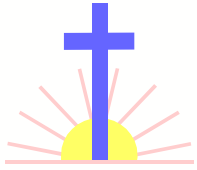

Why is there never enough time to do it right, but always enough time to do it over?

Insanity is the place the mind goes when it finally comprehends the situation.

Check the batteries in your smoke detector...NOW

Eventually, there will be a NHPA Recommended set of hand signals that will be printed in the next revision of the RGS Book, following the Recommended Calls. But the recommended hand signals will not be voted on by our NHPA delegates until 2015, so there is still plenty of time for experimenting with these various suggested hand signals. You may also want to begin using some of these various hand signals and ask the scorekeepers which ones they prefer to see being used. -1st Vice Pres. NHPA, Dan Sanders
